They then moved to Emelle where he attended York for two years, then was a graduate of Livingston High School. He then received a bachelor’s degree in Business Education from Livingston University (UWA). He worked in his father’s store where he later took over the family business from his father in 1960 as an owner of Jimmy Stegall’s Grocery. He retired in 1998 after working almost 50 years helping his community with all their essential needs. He and his wife were married on July 22, 1965 and recently celebrated their 57th Wedding Anniversary with immediate family. For many years, he and Eva enjoyed traveling in their RV on trips to places like New York, Branson, out West, Grand Canyon, and so much more with great friends and family. They loved their community and thrived from it. He was a lifelong member of Emelle Community Church where he served as Sunday School Superintendent for many years.
